

FIRE WRECKS SHAWNIGAN MILL

CANADA WILL GAIN BY U.S. SILVER POLICY

Some World Centres Report Belfer Price Will Be Pushed Higher

Canadian Dollar Is Strong On Exchange

New York, Aug. 10.—The Canadian dollar continued to show strength on the foreign exchange market here today, but other leading currencies edged slightly in terms of United States funds.

In mild dealings, Dominion money improved 1/4 of 1 per cent to 100 1/2 cents, compared with the previous closing rate.

The pound sterling eased 1/4 cent to 55.00%, while French francs were off 1/4 point to 6.00% cents.

World silver centres are both pleased and perplexed over the "nationalization" of the metal in the United States, according to Canadian Press and Associated Press dispatches to The Times.

The belief prevails in some that the United States will have to do much buying abroad, with a resultant boost in the price of silver.

Interpretation of President Roosevelt's action as inflationary has forced down, temporarily at least, the price of the dollar on some world markets.

CANADA TO BENEFIT

Canada and Mexico, producers of the white metal, anticipate benefits in far-off China some experts say two silver prices may result—one American and one world.

Toronto — Hon. Paul Leduc, Ontario Minister of Mines, said "the greatest benefit will be the feeling of security which the producers have that 50¢ will be the minimum price."

During 1933 the price for Canadian silver averaged about 37.50 cents an ounce.

Mexico City—Silver specialists predicted a continued rise in the price of silver, because of limited world production, not because of the move of the United States.

The United States will be forced to buy heavily abroad to carry out its programme, they agreed. Bankers said the step meant important financial benefits to Mexico, asserting this country may become a principal silver market.

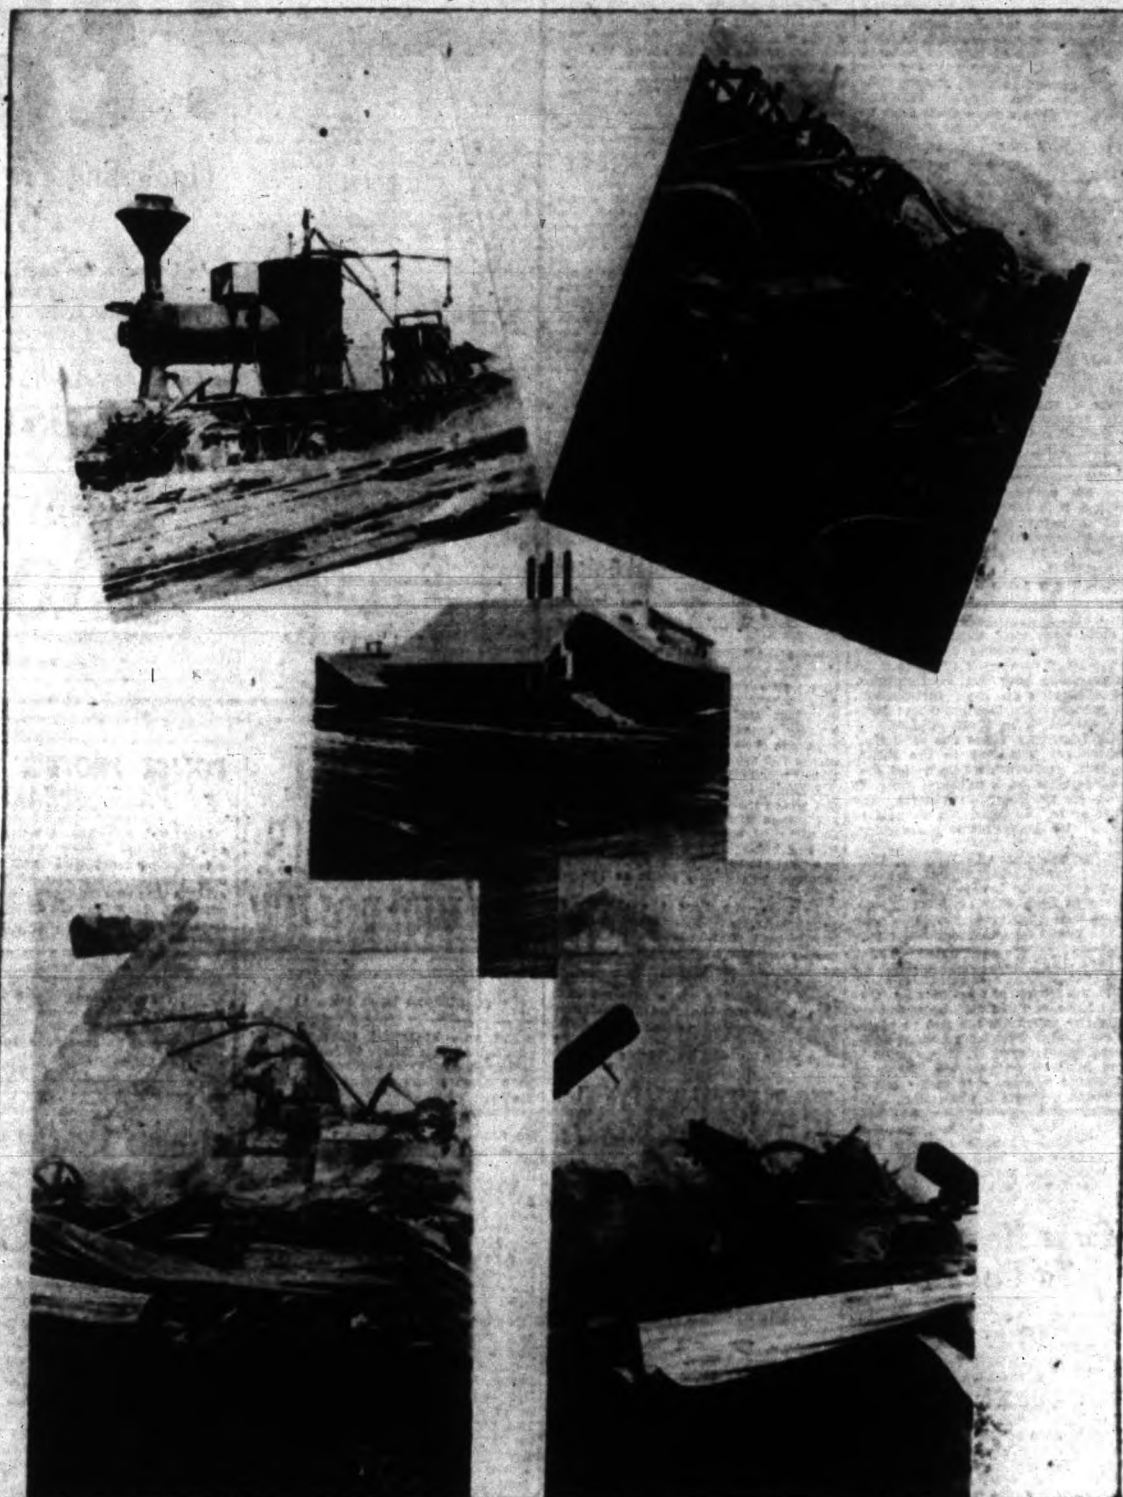

CAUTION AT SHANGHAI

Shanghai — Speculators moved with extreme caution on the opening of the market Friday, the first transactions since the news of the American step was received. Silver prices registered only slight fluctuations, trending downward. Chinese bankers felt the action was of little importance to the world silver market.

REMAINS OF RUINED MILL AT SHAWNIGAN

Some impression of the destruction wrought by the early morning fire at the Shawnigan Lake Lumber Company mill to-day is shown by photographs taken to-day. Centre picture shows a portion of the mill and a pile of the stacked lumber before the blaze. In the top right view all that remained of a loaded flat car is seen. Remains of the locomotive used for pulling flat cars around the yard is shown in the top left picture. The lower views give an idea of how the flames raged through metal and stone buildings. Twisted masses of metal are seen outside the destroyed boiler room, which is barely visible in the background through the smoke. The pictures were taken at 10 o'clock this morning while the blaze continued in many spots.

T. REID AGAIN IS NOMINATED

Hon. A. Wells Gray Speaks at Federal Liberal Convention in New Westminster

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Aug. 10.—Thomas Reid, M.P., was unanimously nominated by the New Westminster Federal Liberal Association yesterday evening as the party's candidate in the royal city riding in the next federal election.

Mr. Reid outlined the fourteen planks of the Federal Liberal party and declared the first item on its programme when returned to power would be a definite step to build up the Dominion's trade.

MINISTER SPEAKS
A brief, but pointed answer to disgruntled Liberals seeking political jobs was given by Hon. A. Wells Gray, provincial Minister of Lands, who said the party could get along without them.

Mr. Gray came to the defence of Premier Pattullo on what he termed "unjustifiable attacks by certain sections of the press."

"The government can defend any of its actions on the public platform," he said.

"It is true we are not making the speed we hoped in, owing to the stagnant attitude of the Bennett government."

He is a graduate of McGill University and was recently promoted to the post of Canadian trade commissioner at New York in succession to Frederic Huddell, who goes to London as senior trade commissioner to the United Kingdom.

In his official capacity Mr. Cole has for the last decade studied and fostered Canadian trade with the west of England, South Wales and South Midlands, which is the territory of the Bristol district.

Police Seek Two Suspected Fire Bugs

Gangs of Fire Fighters Battle Flames Off Summer Homes; Loss Covered By Insurance

Shawnigan Lake Lumber Company's mill, four Japanese residences, a bunk house for single men and a summer home, were wiped out by fire early this morning. The loss of the mill alone was $250,000. It was fully covered by insurance.

Origin of the fire was attributed to incendiaries following a report that two men were seen leaving the yard just before the fire broke out this morning, and the attempt which was made to destroy the mill on July 7, when two men, disturbed by the watchman's sticks of dynamite and a can of coal oil behind them.

W. H. Munroe, general manager of the company, made no announcement of rebuilding.

The blaze broke out in the vicinity of the planing mill about 2:30 o'clock this morning. It was first seen by Harry Warwick, night watchman, who had just completed his morning meal. After giving the fire alarm the watchman tied the whistle down summoning all hands and neighbors for miles around.

By 7 o'clock all that remained were smoldering piles of what had been lumber and buildings and twisted masses of machinery. In various spots flames continued to destroy remaining portions until this afternoon. Three million feet of cut lumber were demolished.

The only machinery saved was a Rose lumber transporter and a small jitney used for towing lumber around the yard.

SETTLEMENT WIPED OUT
Household effects were saved from the Japanese residences at the west end of the lumber yard. The settlement was wiped out completely, leaving four families and three single men homeless.

As the flames consumed remaining parts of their charred homes, the Japanese mothers nursed their children while Mrs. W. H. Munroe, wife of the general manager of the company, and other women, did their best to provide comfort for them.

The Wrigglesworth summer home, across the E. and N. railway tracks from the yard, caught fire about 7 o'clock and was burned to the ground.

While the fire raged a northeast wind prevailed, sending the flames across the lake. For a short time the wind veered to the west which caused the destruction of the Wrigglesworth home.

If the southeast wind had been prevailing at the lake it was considered probable that the entire settlement would have been wiped out, including the company office and general store.

ATTEMPT RETALLED
Since the attempt to destroy the mill on July 7, a double watch had been maintained on the mill. At that time two acts of explosives were found in the boiler room after the firebugs had been frightened away by the night watchman.

Mr. Warwick had completed his rounds before his customary morning meal. He ate in the boiler room and was on his way to the office to punch a station there when he saw the reflection of the flames in the vicinity of the planing mill. Realizing the danger which had been guarded against had arrived, he dashed to the alarm. After summoning assistance he immediately set to work to do what he could towards saving the mill from destruction. His efforts, however, were useless. The flames spread in all directions, rapidly consuming the timber dry buildings in their path.

The planing mill was seen going up in flames and was blown to the boiler room and westward to the stacked lumber and the Japanese settlement.

Caroline Deacon In Upset Defeat

Canadian Champ Eliminated From Women's Singles in B.C. Championships, at Willows, By Gussie Rae-gener, San Francisco; Eleanor Young Gains Final

Coming from behind to win both the second and third sets by taking five games in succession in each, Miss Gussie Rae-gener, left-hander, this morning defeated Miss Caroline Deacon, Vancouver, Canadian singles champion, in the semi-final of the British Columbia women's singles lawn tennis championship at the Willows courts. The score was 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Eleanor Young, Vancouver, defeated finalist in the Canadian championship, helped make to-morrow's final an international one by eliminating Miss Golda Meyer Gross, Berkeley, in the other semi-final, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

The Rae-gener-Deacon match supplied one of those startling results which reward the loyal spectators of tournament week. After having won the first set 6-2, Miss Deacon progressed steadily into a 6-1 lead in the second set, with her own service to come. Miss Rae-gener broke this, won her own delivery and came from behind to win the eighth game after her opponent had led 40-0 on service. She then went into a 6-4 lead and again broke Miss Deacon's service on the third set point. The last point was won on the first of several costly double faults by the Canadian champion.

MISS DEACON LEADS
After the rest period, Miss Rae-gener played brilliantly in the first game of the final set, winning three points by coming to the net and volleying. Miss Deacon overcame the odds on her own service and then broke her opponent's delivery to go into a 2-1 lead. Playing with renewed confidence, she proceeded to win her delivery again to lead at 2-1.

Movie Director Ends His Life

George W. Hill Shoots Himself at Beach Home at Santa Monica, Cal.

Associated Press
Santa Monica, Cal., Aug. 10.—George William Hill, forty, motion picture director, committed suicide in his home on the ocean front to-day by shooting himself in the head, police announced.

The director, former husband of Frances Marion, prominent scenarist, recently returned from China, where he filmed background scenes for "The Good Earth." He was to complete the picture here.

It was said he was working on the screen play of the Pearl Buck novel at his beach home when he killed himself.

Hill was born in Douglas, Kansas, April 25, 1895.

Only last week the director attended the funeral of the late Marie Dressler, accompanying his estranged wife, Miss Marion, to the cemetery.

Hill directed Miss Dressler's picture, "Min and Bill," for which Miss Marion wrote the scenario.

CLERKS IN TWO BANKS FRIGHTEN OFF TWO ROBBERS

Teller in High River, Alta., Shouts "Holdup" and Lone Bandit Flees; Teller in Simcoe, Ont., Shouts and Robber Rushes Out

Canadian Press
High River, Alta., Aug. 10.—For the first time in the history of High River a bank hold-up was attempted to-day.

Pushing a curt note into the teller's eyes demanding all $5 and $10 notes be handed over immediately, a would-be robber attempted to force a note to hold up the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

L. Thomson, assistant teller, who received the note, heard the young man say, "Quick, I am desperate."

The young assistant ducked behind his counter and shouted "Hold-up."

The bank staff rushed forward, and looting his nerve, the bandit made a quick escape, without loot. Police are making a search for the man, but no arrest had been made by afternoon.

Simcoe, Ont., Aug. 10.—Quick thinking by Joseph Regan, teller, prevented an attempt to hold up the bank to-day.

ONTARIO CHANGES RELIEF SYSTEM

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The Ontario government will institute immediately the cash relief system to take the place of the voucher plan, it was learned from authoritative sources at the Legislative Buildings to-day.

Tickets will be issued for bread and milk, it was learned, but each relief recipient will be given a definite cash allowance each week for purchases instead of a voucher.

YOUTH LOSES LIFE IN RIVER

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Aug. 10.—A log jam in the Homathko River which captured a raft carrying two youthful prospectors, is believed to have taken one life while the other man saved himself with a long dive under the logs.

Last July 31 William MacInnes, University of British Columbia student, and Edgar Tick, were off on the raft near Beaver Creek, crossing the river after having tramped about twenty-three miles along its banks.

Logs swept the raft about and MacInnes disappeared. Tick made a long dive under the swirling timber and clung above.

The swollen condition of the river made a search for the body of MacInnes futile just now, but provincial police and Indians of the district are keeping a vigil along the shore.

Drought Cuts Down U.S. Wheat Estimates

Expectation Now Is Total Will Be 490,960,000 Bushels, Compared With 528,000,000 Last Year

Associated Press
Washington, Aug. 10.—Conditions August 7 indicated a United States wheat crop of 490,960,000 bushels and corn 1,607,108,000 bushels, reflecting devastation of the drought.

The Department of Agriculture made these forecasts to-day.

A month ago the indicated wheat crop was 511,000,000 bushels, as against 2,544,000,000 last year.

The preliminary estimate of the winter wheat crop was placed to-day at 490,960,000 bushels, compared with 528,000,000 a month ago, 325,000,000 last year and 532,000,000, the 1927-31 average.

SPRING WHEAT
Spring wheat production is indicated at 80,000,000 bushels, compared with 20,000,000 a month ago, 178,000,000 last year and 254,000,000, the five-year average.

Included in spring wheat production are 3,351,000 bushels of durum wheat, compared with 6,500,000 a month ago, 18,000,000 last year and 20,000,000, the five-year average.

Ontario Premier Delays B.C. Visit

Canadian Press
Toronto, Aug. 10.—Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, Premier of Ontario, does not expect to be able to visit the Pacific Coast this fall. He said to-day he had been invited to British Columbia by Premier Pattullo, but did not think he would have time to make the trip.

He said he would be in the Pacific Northwest in the fall, but would not be able to visit the Pacific Coast this fall.

The Rae-gener-Deacon match supplied one of those startling results which reward the loyal spectators of tournament week. After having won the first set 6-2, Miss Deacon progressed steadily into a 6-1 lead in the second set, with her own service to come. Miss Rae-gener broke this, won her own delivery and came from behind to win the eighth game after her opponent had led 40-0 on service. FOUR DIE IN SUDDEN FLOOD

Search For Other Possible
Victims in Valleys West of Denver

Associated Press
Denver, Aug. 10.—A flood-clogged death trap at twilight last night claimed the lives of at least four persons.
Authorities digging through the debris left by the torrent as it swept through the narrow mountain canyon late yesterday, could not say whether any other persons were missing.
The search for additional bodies
continued.
Only two victims were identified.
They were Mr. and Mrs. John H.
Henderson, swept to their deaths as they attempted to flee from their stalled automobiles to an upper hillside.
The two unidentified bodies were those of a boy, about twelve, and a man.
The flood was the result of a cloudburst in the mountains west of Denver. Damage was not expected to be heavy, though ordinarily peaceful streams in the hills west of Denver were swollen to fury by the cloudburst and a deluge of big hailstones.

TO SLAUGHTER MANY CATTLE

Wholesale Killing Suggested
For Alberta Drought Area

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Aug. 10.—Slaughtering and processing of 75,000 or more head of cattle in Alberta is proposed as a practicable means of meeting the serious situation created by dry weather and failure of feed supply.
A request has been made to the Dominion Government to finance such a plan and is being supported by Hon. George Hoadley as part of his present negotiations at Ottawa.
It involves federal assistance to the Alberta cattle industry on a similar basis to that in the case of wheat growers, the suggestion being that the cattle in the dry areas be bought through the Dominion Government and made into "tanks," or dehydrated meat, for export. The scheme could be made up, it is suggested, by a charge of one-quarter cent a pound on all cattle processed during the next year or two.

WOMAN AND MEN EXECUTED

Mrs. Salvatore Antonio and Two Former Companions
Pay Penalty at Sing Sing

By DALE HARRISON
Associated Press Correspondent
Oswego, N.Y., Aug. 10.—Salvatore Antonio, "his house was always full of dope and guns" — is finally executed.
First to pay yesterday evening for the $5,000 insurance murder was his wife, Anna. Then came the execution of Sam Paracel, and finally Vincent Satta, death-house gallant.
Before midnight struck they were dead. New York hanging executed a threefold payment for a petty racketeer's murder.
Mrs. Antonio, twenty-nine-year-old mother of three children, pleading in her innocence had prayed to the last that mercy would be shown.
Governor Herbert Lehman, however, declined to interfere.
Wearing a simple blue gingham dress, Mrs. Antonio was escorted at the last by a priest and two matrons.
Samuel Paracel, forty-three, came next. "I'm going to the chair, all right," he said. "But I'm innocent.
That's all I've got to say—and thank you, for nothing."
Finally came Vincent Satta, twenty-three. He was cheerful.
"Hello, guard," he called out. He died smiling.
Two hours before the end Satta had said from his cell: "She is innocent."
To warder Lewis E. Lewis, Mrs.
Antonio said in her last hour: "I don't care what you do with me.
I'm not afraid to die. I have nothing on my conscience. I never killed anyone."
One of the two men, Satta or Paracel, which she did not say, told her before the slaying. Mrs. Antonio acknowledged that he was going to kill her husband.
To this man she quoted herself as saying: "I don't care what you do. I'm only interested in my children."
As Governor Lehman's private telephone wire brought a flash to Albany that the triple execution had been completed at Sing Sing, the chief executive gave to the public a five-hundred-word explanation of his refusal to intervene.
Pasquale Capello, a brother, told Mrs. Antonio early in the evening that her three-year-old son, Frank, was three blocks away in an Oswego home and that he would take care of him henceforth.

EXECUTION IN SASKATCHEWAN

Prince Albert, Sask., Aug. 10.—
Thomas E. Killing, forty-four-year-old farmer of Brim, Sask., paid with his life on the gallows here at 6 o'clock this morning for the murder on June 10, 1933, of his young German trapping partner, Oscar Schatz, twenty-eight.
Killing, who met his end calmly, said nothing during the march from his cell.
Mrs. Killing, who reached Prince Albert yesterday evening, was permitted to see the condemned man for about five minutes. Killing was the father of six children. He was convicted at Melville last February.
Schatz was killed in the lonely trapper's cabin shared by the two men on the Saskatchewan River twenty-eight miles northeast of Nipawin, Sask.

NEW ATTACK ON TUBERCULOSIS

Edmonton, Aug. 10.—Free treatment of tuberculosis for all Alberta residents suffering from the disease, the cost to come out of general provincial taxation, is sought by the Edmonton board of health in a plan that will be submitted to the Alberta legislative assembly today.
The taxation inquiry board will be asked to recommend the plan, which is similar to the one now in operation in Saskatchewan, to the provincial government.
A considerable reduction in the number of cases was noted in Saskatchewan after the plan had been in operation two years and it is felt equally good results would be obtained here.

MOONEY COURT MOVE FAILURE

San Francisco Aug. 10.—For the

INDIAN BOY IS ADMITTED

Special to The Times
Duncan, Aug. 10.—A meeting of the Duncan Consolidated School Board was held on Wednesday evening with Trustee O. T. Smythe in the chair.
The principal business of the meeting was to consider the applications received to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of J. E. Pugh from the elementary school, and Miss
M. McQueen from the high school.
The principal of the elementary school asked that a male teacher be appointed, but the board was divided on this point. Trustees Smythe and Evans favoring the appointment of a local girl. On the vote, the majority sided with the principal's suggestion and applications from two men were picked out, and these will be interviewed by Trustees Mr. Leeming and Mr. Aitken in regard to the vacancy in the high school. The principal stated that a teacher of physics and chemistry was needed and it was decided to advertise in Vancouver for this. A meeting will be held August 20 to consider applications then.
Miss Buckmaster applied for substitution in regard to the vacancy in the high school. She was given an application to receive from the Indian agent for the admission of an Indian boy to the high school.
He has been attending the Sardinia Indian school, and this application was recommended by the principal of the high school and after some discussion it was decided to grant this permission. It is believed to be the first case on the island in which such an application has been made.

FARM DEBT BOARDS SOON TO OPERATE

Act For Readjustment of Agrarian Obligations
Throughout Canada to Be Brought Into Force Within Ten Days

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Within ten days the government will proclaim the Farm Credit Act passed last session, enabling debt-ridden farmers to arrange compromises with the creditors and start over again financially, according to an announcement.
It probably will apply first to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where the need is greatest, being extended later to all provinces.
M. A. MacPherson, former Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, has been in Ottawa two or three weeks drafting regulations under the act and starting it in motion. He will not be a permanent official.
In a statement issued yesterday, the former Saskatchewan official said the purpose of the act was to provide legal machinery, of the simplest type, enabling financially distressed farmers to secure relief from their overpowering debts. At the same time it provided safeguards for the creditors.

oil storage tanks and buildings of the Standard Oil Company of New York at Newchwang were attacked by bandits to-day, said a telephone message to the company's Mukden office.
Apparently the raiders were beaten off, but the guard around the company's installation was reinforced in preparation for another onslaught.
The raid followed closely on receipt of a letter received at the Mukden office of the company, signed by seven bandit chiefs demanding $10,000.
The alternative was that the Newchwang tanks would be set afire and the staff put to death.
"Mercy will not be shown," said the note, "when the tanks are burning and the slaughter is under way."
"We do not fear Japanese or denationalized slaves of Manchukuo.
Take care of your oil and your lives."

THOMAS POULIN DIES IN QUEBEC

Canadian Press
Quebec, Aug. 10.—One of the most prominent French language newspapermen in Quebec, editor of L'Action Catholique and a champion of the working class, Thomas Poulin, forty-six, died here yesterday after a short illness. He was formerly with Le Droit of Ottawa.

COMPANIES INVESTIGATED

New Zealand and Australian Commissions Inquire Into Investment Trust

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters
Wellington, N.Z., Aug. 10.—Investments valued at $1,000,000 (about $4,000,000) are believed involved in the New Zealand Investment Trust and allied companies whose affairs are engaging the attention of six governments in New Zealand and Australia. Four leading public accountants here have been appointed investigating inspectors.
The New Zealand Parliament moved quickly to pass a bill appointing a royal commission to make an investigation and the Australian government and four state administrations similarly authorized a royal commission.

Introducing the bill here, Finance Minister J. G. Coates said there had been an influx of principals of the investment group from Auckland to Sydney.
Owing to large transfers of shares, proprietary control of the companies had passed into the hands of Sydney companies, he said.

Woman Builds Skyscrapers

San Francisco Girl Sold Real Estate at Fourteen; Now Deals in Millions, Erects Office Buildings

New York, Aug. 10.—The project which has won an international reputation for breaking down barriers, to the east is just a little girl, 19, who is building skyscrapers. Of course this is not a real skyscraper, but her actual attitude gives you the feeling that million dollar enterprises are merely part of the day's routine to her.

She has initiated enough of them, certainly, to be used to them by now. She is said to be the only woman skyscraper builder in the country who starts at the beginning and carries the whole building through to the end. That is, she first makes an analysis to decide whether a building is needed at a certain location. Then she buys the land, either for herself or a syndicate, finances the building, supervises the actual construction, and when the building is completed she rents it. She is responsible for some of San Francisco's taller buildings.

STARTED AT FOURTEEN

"They would not want like skyscrapers here, but that is what we call them out there," she explained, between sips of coffee in the garden of the American Women's Association where she is staying. "I love every minute of my work. I ought to be dead at it since I was fourteen."

The reason for her career's early start was the family's need for money after the death of her father, an inventor who was an associate of Edison and Bell, and who gave to the world the automatic alarm and chemical fire extinguisher.

Miss Shaffer's first move as a prospective bread-winner was to put down her skirts and put up her curls. Then she decided that since she must make a fortune quickly, she had better start in earnest and the largest thing she could think of. A house seemed to fill the bill and so she began to look for openings in the help wanted columns.

BOUGHT MAN'S JOB

There was some in those devoted to "Feminine" work who were interested in her at all, so she turned to "Male Help Wanted." Here she found an advertisement for an experienced real estate salesman who could drive an automobile. She applied for the job and was accepted. She had no experience, but she was not an experienced salesman and never had driven an automobile in her life, young Miss Shaffer felt that she would cut perfectly.

Accordingly, she went to the address given. She found a line of men waiting. "I have come to get this position," she said, "and I am here to stay. I have been waiting, and then you say, 'We don't want a woman.'"

"Well, then," urged this quick-thinking, energetic young woman, "let me have the names of people who have refused to buy land from you."

More to get rid of her than for any other reason she was finally given a number of cards three years old. She immediately went about calling on "prospects." And if this was a real Horatio Alger story, she would, of course, have sold hundreds of acres of orange land immediately.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SMALL AMOUNTS OF MEAT PERMITTED ONE-YEAR-OLD

General opinion on the desirability of meat in the diet has been considerably in the last few years. Children used to be given meat as soon as they could chew it. Then there was a campaign against meat and all kinds of ill were supposedly ascribed to its use. Now the tide has turned again and children one year of age are regularly given meat or fish three times a week, and once a day after sixteen months.

SCRAPED MEAT

It is now understood that meat need not be well chewed to be easily digestible. The "one-year-old" with small teeth is in no position to do a very thorough job of chewing, but the meat given him can be scraped, chopped or scraped, and thus be readily digestible. Scraping consists of running the bowl of a spoon or a silver knife over and over a good tender cut of lamb or beef. These scrapings are then packed into a small ball and broiled or pan cooked. One tablespoonful, slightly melted, in an average amount to give the child baby three times weekly at the 12 o'clock or 2 p.m. meal.

BACON ONCE A DAY

Bacon may be given once daily if desired. It should be of good quality, sliced thinly and cooked until crisp, at which time it may be mashed or powdered. It is very rich and highly nutritious, but does not take the place of meat in the ordinary sense, as it is only the fat that is served and not the tough meat scraps.

Roasted, baked, or boiled fish may be given in place of meat. The fish should be very fresh, flaky, and of good quality. White fish, such as halibut or salmon, are the best.

Miss Genevieve Shaffer, no special talents; just hard work and observation.

Since this is real life, it must be confessed that it was months before she could get anybody interested enough to even look at her land, and when she did, a prospect she promptly lost him to another salesman.

But she kept on and finally got an insurance firm to let her use a salesman's desk during his lunch period. She promised to answer his telephone calls in return for the privilege. She not only answered his calls but put in a few words for herself. Whenever anybody telephoned about insurance, she talked real estate. Moreover, she made sales.

In no time at all she was opening an agency of her own. Not a large agency—just one room, with her invalid mother behind a screen so that she could look after her, and her files in a photograph case. But it served and success came.

Since then she has won all sorts of recognition among real estate men, never conceding to any other woman. Her spare time is spent learning new things. She has studied law, journalism, singing and everything else that comes along. She has traveled in every country but Russia and Ireland, and will go both places before she stops. She lives on the top floor of one of her own tall buildings in San Francisco, with a view in every direction. Each room in her house contains furniture selected by her in a different country. The library is English, the dining-room Italian, the bedroom Chinese, the living-room French.

"I have no sixth sense in business," she admits. "Hard work has been responsible for whatever I have accomplished—hard work and observation. You know the person who works hard and observes well often gets undeserved credit for intuition." Miss Shaffer, who is in her early thirties, has never married. But she expects to some day when she gets time.

the sole, has a minimum of bones. Naturally, all bones should be removed before offering fish to children. Salmon is rich in iodine and may, therefore, cause a rash if the child happens to be sensitive to iodine. Otherwise, it may be used for children in cautious amounts. Because salmon is very fat, it may not be as wise a choice for the child under four as the white fish mentioned.

City Temple Garden Party—At 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, August 18, the Women's Auxiliary of the City Temple will hold a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Holt, 1224 McGregor Avenue. Refreshments will be served at the Temple Hall.

WAGNER'S WIDOW WITH HITLER

Newington was given to start concerning the romance of Adolf Hitler, now President-Chancellor of Germany, and Frau Wagners, widow of the noted composer, when the couple met again at Bayreuth, where the last performance recently spent a brief vacation. Mrs. Wagner is shown smiling her welcome to her husband.

New York Hotel Takes Drastic Action to Obtain Actress's Rent

New York, Aug. 10.—A dispute between Betty Randolph, former Polaris girl, and the Hotel San Carlos over rent, has resulted in a dramatic day with the former actress still entangled behind the locked doors of her apartment. An indication that "something will happen" came from Walter L. Steiger, manager of the hotel, but what action he contemplated could not be learned.

Miss Randolph has been marooned in her penthouse apartment on the eighteenth floor of the hotel ever since the management cut off the electric lights and elevator service to the apartment.

St. Ann's Annual Book Attractive

Another interesting addition to the annals of St. Ann's history and the work of the Sisters in Victoria is the yearly booklet of the Congregation of St. Ann just issued.

Dedicated to the Jubilees, Sister Mary Margaret of the Sacred Heart and Sister Mary Theodor, who on July 28 completed sixty years in the sisterhood, the booklet gives a most interesting synopsis of the history of the various missions in Alaska and the Yukon, and includes a fascinating narrative, "In the Land of the Midnight Sun," which is culled from the diary of Sister Mary Mildred and tells of her trip with the Superior-General of the Order, Rev. Mother Mary Dorothy, to the Yukon and Alaska missions last summer.

The Jubilee greetings, in charming French verse, sent by the Mother-General and sisters of the Mother House at Lechin, Quebec, on the anniversary of the founding of St. Ann's in Victoria, and a valdatory poem to Bishop Gerald Murray are also attractive features of this interesting little publication.

No gift too great, none too small for the Salvation Army Day.

135,300 DEATHS

Annually, in these United States, 135,300 people die from various causes. Unbelievable, but true—each death, each burying funeral costs more than $100.00. How can you afford to let your family's name disappear from the world's record?

WHAT IS THE ANSWER? Flies are the hidden danger that lives. Do not allow them to carry dirt and germs into your home. Buy a few of our family's name-disappearing flies. Buy a few of our family's name-disappearing flies. Buy a few of our family's name-disappearing flies.

MABEL McLELLIOTT

"What's the programme to-day, kids?"

"I don't know," Gypsy would say. "What's planned, mother?"

"Nothing but a one o'clock dinner," the lady would reply, contentedly.

"You drive me to church, father, and after that I'd like to stop at the cemetery. It's mother's anniversary, you know. Just you and Tom do as you please, dear. You work hard all week. If you want to be here for dinner, we'd love it. But if you'd rather picnic, why Cytie will fix a basket for you."

So, occasionally they picnicked, just the two of them, on a high hill, with the bright blue skies of late October overhead. It was fun—it was glorious fun. Later they would tool the little car back to Blue Hills, and have tea with the family in the early dusk. There would be a ro-tin open fire. Some of Gypsy's friends might drop in, to exclaim over Cytie's chocolate cake. The twins would squabble over their bicycles. And some hours later, tired and utterly content, they would say goodbye and be driven down to the station by Harvey Merrill.

"So out next week, Gyp?"

"I think so, dad. Unless Tom has to work. It's been such fun. You're too good to us."

"Don't be silly," he would hiss and shake Tom's hand and watch until they climbed aboard. Then he would sigh and shake his shoulders and drive away. Seemed funny to have Gypsy old enough to be married, living in the city. Well, that was life. The grew up and got married. You wanted them to, of course, but—well—it was funny anyhow.

One Sunday morning, early in November, Gypsy's mother drove over to her the page containing the society column of the newspaper.

"I see Lila's back."

"Oh, really?" Gypsy scanned the item with interest. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Van Ruster Bl- had returned from a honeymoon abroad, said the society editor, and would be at home after the fifteenth in a duplex at 333 East—Street.

"Why, that's only two blocks away from us," Gypsy said, surprised.

"I suppose you will be seeing her quite a lot," said Mrs. Merrill, gently.

It wouldn't do to tell mums, Gypsy thought, that while the twins lived only two blocks apart geographically, the social gap was wider. It wasn't too likely that their circles would touch.

But she was wrong about that, as she was later to learn.

CHAPTER V

It was Lila's voice on the telephone, sweet, slightly fretful, as always. "Is that you, Gypsy? We got back last week. I'm dying to see you."

Of course, Gypsy didn't take this literally. Lila was given to exaggeration.

"Do come for dinner next week," Lila urged. "How about Tuesday? Is Tuesday free?"

Gypsy, smiling to herself, said that Tuesday would be fine. Lila's air of supposing that Tom and she had a full calendar of engagements amused her. This was Saturday afternoon. Gypsy was glad she'd been at home when Lila called. Dinner at the Elms on Tuesday gave her something to look forward to. What with watching the budget, and seeing that the bills were paid, the young Weavers had little to spend on amusement.

Then she began to worry about her dress. She didn't want to look "bridey"—that was fatal—but the ivory dress she had worn on her wedding day was the only really formal frock she owned. She took it out, stared at it critically, and decided that, without sleeves, it would do very nicely. She had made it so that the back might easily be cut down to a V, while the front was fashionably high, after that season's mode. Yes, with her last year's red slippers, it would do!

But when she routed out those slippers, they proved sadly disappointing. The last time she had danced in them, an irremediable grease stain had appeared from nowhere on the toe of the left one. Gypsy struggled with cleaning fluid and chalk, to remove this. But all her efforts only made the spot more stubborn.

"They look awful!" she was ready to wail. It would be the grossest extravagance, she thought, to buy a new pair for Lila's dinner party. Tom, dashing in just then, whistling gaily, found her on the floor of the bedroom, bottles, slippers and rags strewn about, her face woe-begone.

"What's up?"

Gypsy sat back on her heels, pushing back her curly mop.

"Just these awful shoes."

"What's the matter with 'em, honey?"

She held out the offending object.

"This one's a mess. I simply can't wear it."

"Well, what's all the excitement? I didn't know we were going places."

"Lila's home. We're invited to dinner."

"Oh, that. Gosh!"

"You don't want to go?"

He grinned at her. "Of course, I do. Tell you what, we'll go out now and buy you a new pair."

She said accusingly: "Thomas Weaver, you know rent day comes next week. And your insurance."

He snapped his fingers. "Right you are. Well, what about those ivory dinges you wore with the dress?"

She struck at her forehead. "What a fool I am! I'd clean forgotten my wedding shoes. I can have them dyed."

She would have them dyed green, brilliant green, and wear the little string of jade-colored beads father had given her on her last birthday. Tom watched her, smoking idly, as she rummaged through box and drawer, in search of the ivory slippers. She was conscious of his unwelcome silence, and turned to look at him, surprising some new, troubled expression in his eyes.

"What's the matter, darling?" He squinted through the smoke.

"Nothing—only I wish I could give you things. You weren't very bright to marry a poor man, Gypsy. You ought to have married. You're so pretty and so young."

"Will you stop harping on that?" he cried, impatiently. "It's made him feel ashamed. A pair of shuffled and shabby dancing shoes, muddled to the shape of Gypsy's small feet, secured him."

"Darling, what do you think I want out of life?" Gypsy wanted to know, abandoning the search. "Just money and the things it buys? You ought to know better than that."

"You said modesty that, of course, he did. But it wasn't much fun for her. He could see that. If she'd married Martha Broughton—"

Gypsy laughed aloud. "As if I ever considered that!"

"Well, he did, anyhow." Tom trumped about the room now, searching for the big for the black. His shoulders were so broad, his legs so long, he made the little table and chair tremble.

"If you suppose he'll be there Tuesday?" He frowned at her.

Gypsy said lightly, "How should I know? He's Dave's boss. He's a grooved Tom. 'Thinks he's a buccaner'."

Gypsy couldn't help giggling at him—a little. Tom was not appeased. How funny that he should be, after all this time, and after being married to her for two months, still jealous of Martha Broughton!

She pretended not to notice, and went hunting her ivory slippers. They were nowhere to be found.

"I must have left them at home," she said. "Although it's funny, if I did, mother didn't find them before this."

They did not intend to go out to Blue Hills on the morrow, so she telephoned the house. Mr. Merrill had not seen the wedding slippers. They seemed to be irretrievably lost.

This was in the nature of a catastrophe for Gypsy. She came back into the living-room, where Tom was sitting at the gate-legged table, with all his papers and figures spread out before him, and set down without saying a word.

Tom pushed back the water of work and ran his fingers through his hair. "Put 'em, honey?"

She shook her head.

"Well, look, why don't you run over before the shops close and get a pair now. You may not have time Monday."

Gypsy said, stubbornly, that she'd wear the red ones. She did not add what she thought in her heart: they looked simply dreadful and Lila would be sure to notice. She put on a cheerful face and went out to get slippers. But the thought nagged her, as she boiled and skimmed shrimps for salad and cut up handfuls of crisp white celery, and mixed mayonnaise. This time last year she thought she'd rushed out, quite carelessly, to buy new sandals. She had spent a great deal of her salary on her young and pretty person. But now—well, it was her last year. And there were so many things they needed for the house. No, the red slippers would just have to do. And if Martha were there—well, it couldn't be helped, that was all!

Just the same, when she rushed home from work Tuesday evening to bathe and dress her hair rather than as she stared at the slippers. Her dress was all right. She had washed it on last night. It was clean and quite in the mode. Trust Gypsy for that. But not even her clever fingers could transform scuffed and soiled dancing shoes into the shimmering new ones. Think goodness her little black velvet wrap with the white fur "cat" the twins called it! It still looked nice!

CHILD STAR AT DOMINION

Shirley Temple Plays Lead in "Baby, Take a Bow," Opening To-day

Here's a beauty hint from the loveliest young lady of five years in film-dom. Shirley Temple is the name now playing with James Dunn and Claire Trevor in "Baby, Take a Bow," at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

The advice, of course, comes in a roundabout fashion—rather a triple pass. Shirley to Mrs. Gertrude Temple to screen fans.

Almost a perfect child physically, Shirley's marvelous complexion is the joy of cameramen. She needs no makeup because of the rosininess of her cheeks, and her delicate blonde hair is perfectly adapted for the lens.

Shirley has cut teeth—That's Hint No. 1, says her mother. But they are carefully supervised, so that her fine skin and hair aren't coarsened by the loss.

Hint No. 2: Lots and lots of vegetables. Vegetables in purees were given her from infancy, now she takes them steamed.

And Hint No. 3 is lots of sleep. A nap in the afternoon, if possible, and at least ten, preferably eleven, hours of sleep a night.

Shirley's hair, by the way, is not given any chemical rinses to maintain the delicacy of its tints.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Carole Lombard vs. Bing Crosby! These were the contestants in a studio battle recently when the script of "We're Not Dressing," the new Paramount musical which is now at the Columbia Theatre, called for a real fight. Director Norman Taurog kept the two slapping each other for hours before he was satisfied. Pictured with them in the picture are George Burns and Gracie Allen, Ethel Merman and Leon Errol.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Renowned for his minute knowledge of foreign locales, Director George Fitzmaurice had plenty of opportunity to exercise his memory during filming of "All Men Are Enemies," at the Playhouse Theatre.

The screen play, based on Richard Aldington's great novel, is laid in a variety of locales, which include Capri, England, Paris, Vienna and London.

NOTICE!

Members of the Burns Club are requested to meet at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday at 2:15 p.m. sharp, for the purpose of attending the funeral of John Burns, Immediate Past President.

Seats have been reserved for club members. It would be greatly appreciated if members with cars would place them at the disposal of the executive.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

YOUNG SCREEN STAR AT DOMINION

Shirley Temple, sensational young screen actress, plays her first feature role in "Baby, Take a Bow," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Where To Go To night

As Advertised
Capitol—"Blue Danube Nights," starring Essie Matthews.
Columbia—Bing Crosby in "We're Not Dressing."
Dominion—Shirley Temple in "Baby, Take a Bow."
Empire—George Arliss in "Voltaire."
Playhouse—Helen Twelvetrees in "All Men Are Enemies."
Crystal Garden—Swimming.

DIANA WYNYARD WILL STAR HERE

Special appeal to every married person is made to be offered by "Let's Try Again," co-starring Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook, of "Cavalcade" fame. It is coming to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

Adapted to the screen from the Broadway stage success, "Four Grapes," it definitely depicts a problem which confronts countless couples: that of prolonging the honeymoon and retaining the romance throughout the years.

The protagonists of the picture are a doctor and his wife, both of whom think that their love for each other has died with the passing of the years. Longing to recapture romance each turns to a younger mate.

The added feature will be "Cockeyed Cavaliers," the new comedy film with Bert Wheeler and Robert Willsey.

EMPIRE THEATRE

For several weeks, during the production of "Voltaire," a Warner Bros. picture, which is showing at the Empire Theatre, George Arliss hunched himself in a stooped posture which characterized Voltaire in life. Mr. Arliss is a small man, but he made himself still smaller and shorter by bad carriage in the picture based on a dramatic incident in the Frenchman's life. Since he was al-

KANSAS POLICE KILL THREE MEN

Associated Press
Emporia, Kansas, Aug. 10.—Officers scanned fingerprint records to-day for identification of three men killed near here in a gun battle with members of the Kansas highway patrol who suspected them of a bank robbery plot.

The men were shot and killed when two carloads of patrolmen encountered them sitting in a motor car on a side road near here late yesterday. When the officers got out of their cars, the men opened fire. Officers returned the fire, killing all three.

The patrolmen were cruising on the highway when they had been tipped off that three men planned to hold up the Lebo (Kansas) State Bank.

PENNMAN OF GREAT AGE EATEN

Canadian Press
Calgary, Aug. 10.—Stewed penniman, dried buffalo meat, which supplied the Indians with an ample supply in lean months, estimated to be more than eighty years old, was cooked at the home of William Campbell, a farmer of the Bowden district.

Nearly a century old, the penniman was found in a cache, on the Campbell farm during ploughing operations. Held in twenty rawhide bags, the meat had hardened into a rocklike condition.

"It tasted like meat and had retained some of its original flavor," said Mr. Campbell in describing the "eat" slow he had made on his find. Penniman, as made by the Indians, was composed of lean buffalo meat, dried in the sun and then pounded and stewed into balls, spiced with wild berries.

of hors de combat and the victory enjoy an everlasting entente cordiale. So long as a people extend their territory or business, so must they institute measures to protect and consolidate it, the degree of success or failure depending entirely on the ability of those who possess or acquire the new interests.

How many, marching in the recent most recent parade, happened to realize the emotions of any native Indian who may have witnessed their demonstration?

Indian from his native haunts; the French Canadian and the English Loyalists established themselves in this great Dominion. Shall we, who, accepting this heritage, cry, "Hold, enough!" that we might, by our craven few announce to all the world that our part heretofore must be the lot of that most pitiful of all creatures, a grivelling, whining, ingrate?

ENQUILTY RELIEF

To the Editor:—Various attempts have been made to the Enquilted Municipal Council to bring to their notice the precarious condition of the unemployed in the district, the actual amount received by any one family regardless of size is $18.50 per month, whereas in most municipalities, as authorized by Dominion and provincial governments, the rates are on July 31 $20 per man, $2.50 for wife, $3.50 for each child, plus 20 per cent for shelter and 20 per cent for clothing, plus a recent increase of 10 per cent, making a total of $35 for a family of five. As two-thirds of this amount is borne by the Dominion and provincial governments, it leaves the municipality the sum of $11 only to pay.

Surely by the above figures our City Fathers can clearly see that by increasing the spending power of the unemployed they also increase the ability of the local business man to pay his taxes. Surely they can descend from their realms of high finance to the reasoning of poor, dusty, dusty, dusty like us—the more one has to spend the easier it is to pay. That is, of course, if they can take time off from gathering the pound of flesh from their City Fathers. Also, the unemployed are not kept good and fat there will not be any pound of flesh to gather.

How is any one family able to exist off the meagre pittance now doled out? Is there any one of our City Fathers "Daniel" enough to make a public statement as to how he himself? Other appeals having failed we make this appeal through the press, hoping the public will see the injustice meted out to these men who are unemployed through no fault of their own.

Since the public deems it necessary to pay each councillor $18.50 per month to distribute the wealth, would they not deem it necessary to pay the man who produces this wealth a little more, when the councillors' salaries come from the man who produces it?

PEACE AND WAR

To the Editor:—Considering the effect the war had on various people, including myself, a returned soldier, I am naturally interested in such matters written by "Soldier's Widow" and W. E. Peirce.

Rev. Clem Devis may be right in the possibility of another war. As long as people do not consider the "Commandments" worth obeying there is bound to be trouble. The youth of to-day listen to no minister say one thing and another the opposite. No wonder there is confusion. We speak of men giving their lives, whereas war is really a game of trying to get the other man before he gets you. There is a story of a local Indian chief who gave his life for three of his men. They had killed three men of a larger tribe, and, right or wrong, the larger tribe demanded their lives in return. The offenders would not give themselves up, no doubt claiming to be right. (In war both sides claim to be right.) However, they happened to have a both wise and brave chief who asked if one chief was not worth three men. The other tribe agreed and went home. The chief who had not acted wisely might have been slaughtered? "What this world needs to-day is leaders (and followers) who will lead the world out of this merry-go-round of war. Our Lord Jesus Christ set the example, but who are brave enough to follow?

I find comfort in Bible quotations such as:
"Whom is better than weapons of war, but one sinner destroyeth much good."—Isaiah 18.
"For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God."—1 Cor. 3:18.
"And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars, so that ye be not troubled for all these things must come to pass, but the end is at hand."—Matt. 24:6.

And there are many more for those who will take a few minutes each day to study the Bible for themselves. It is a most interesting and comforting book. If my experiences in Belgium and France have taught me anything they have taught me to appreciate most what Christ went through to save sinners like me. THE BLIND Old Heywood Avenue, Victoria, August 8.

THE BLIND

To the Editor:—The citizens of Victoria are to be congratulated on their generosity in contributing financially to the support of blind welfare work in this province.

The Canadian Federation of the Blind, British Columbia division, through the columns of this newspaper, now takes pleasure in expressing deep appreciation of the kindly financial help given by the people of Victoria to the work of this organization during the past two and a half years. During this period the Federation has employed a blind girl, accompanied by a guide, as a collector. Mrs. E. Walker is the young lady who solicited donations for the organization.

The Canadian Federation of the Blind is a national organization with branches throughout the Dominion. Its object is to unite the blind in brotherhood for the purpose of:

- (1) Obtaining legislation to grant financial aid to the needy blind of Canada;
- (2) Expressing the viewpoint of the sightless in an independent, intelligent and organized manner on all matters concerning their own welfare;
- (3) Bringing the blind people together at regular intervals, so that they may discuss their own particular problems, learn what is being done for the sightless in other parts of the world, listen to addresses on current topics and hear programmes of all kinds;
- (4) Interacting those blessed with eyesight in the work carried on by the blind and enabling them to associate members of the organization, so that they may better understand and assist the sightless people.

Mrs. E. Scott, secretary and federate for the purpose of discussing the problems of the blind, and possibly forming a small group which will carry on in Victoria next winter. All those willing to attend such a meeting please notify Mrs. Scott by Monday, August 13. She would also appreciate hearing from seeing people belonging to service clubs, lodges, church organizations or any other public bodies, as well as from individuals who are interested in work for the blind, and of the sightless people themselves, those who are partially blind, or they do not attend a meeting. The Federation receives no government contributions, therefore, donations have been very much appreciated. The organization's continued existence depends on voluntary contributions.

All those interested are asked please communicate with Mrs. Scott by phone, through letter, or by mail call. Phone: 2-1404, write call at 624 Michigan Street. Scott's hours are from 10:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. She will be in town August 17.

E. SCOTT,

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE SUPREME umpire, who in recent years has been the "last straws" on many of baseball's most famous figures, called away another of the old guard on Wednesday evening in the person of Wilbert Robinson, former manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, in the National League, and owner of the Baltimore Orioles of the International circuit. Robinson was one of the few outstanding links between the old and new of baseball and the modern game. Famous first as one of the greatest catchers in the game, when he was with the champion Orioles in the nineties, he gained later distinction as a pitcher of the Brooklyn club, which he took hold of in 1914, and led to pennant victories in 1916 and 1920.

Known and admired as "Uncle Robbie" everywhere, but particularly among the fans of Flatbush, native stronghold of the Brooklyn "Dodgers," Robinson was one of the shrewdest strategists and most expert handlers of pitching talent in the major leagues. His success as a manager largely was due to his ability in developing young twirling prospects and rejuvenating veteran timber. To the modern baseball fan, Robinson was a familiar figure as the "old-timer" who was with the Baltimore Orioles, National League champions in 1924, 1925 and 1926, and associated with such stars as John McGraw, Phil Kessel, Mike Killebrew, and others. Credit for teaching him most of the pitching art is acquired.

Vance, a catcher, came close to pitching Brooklyn's 1924 club to a pennant by winning twenty-eight games. The team finished second after a series of jockeying with Pittsburgh and New York, the latter finally winning in the last few days of a stirring campaign. Robinson laid the groundwork for his success as a developer of pitching talent in the days he was rated among the best backstops in the game. Much of his managerial success was derived from the time when he was with the Baltimore Orioles, National League champions in 1924, 1925 and 1926, and associated with such stars as John McGraw, Phil Kessel, Mike Killebrew, and others. It is interesting to recall that Robinson was one of the hardest hitters in this galaxy of stars and a mainstay behind the bat.

Robinson started his major league career in 1896, at the age of nineteen, and was one of the first backstops to catch behind the plate all the time. His record as a player, over a span of seventeen years, from 1896 to 1913, was a batting average of .287, scored 620 runs and reaped 1,398 hits.

It is interesting to recall that Robinson, who for a figure was familiar to modern fans, ranked among the fastest men in the game in his early playing days. He celebrated his big league season by stealing forty-two bases.

The powers controlling flat racing in England are reported to be framing measures to overcome the shortage of first class jockeys that must inevitably arrive within a few years. Apprentices races at Newmarket and other tracks have in the past been expected to reveal hidden talent out of late these events have ceased to attract owners, most of the competition being provided by trainer-owned riders. This type of race, moreover, does not provide the novice with experience against the regular riders and, on this latter account, a campaign is being waged against the present minimum weight which was raised seven pounds a couple of seasons ago. Whether a return to the former minimum of eighty-four pounds would make any difference is uncertain.

Another suggestion is the provision of more races for amateur riders. Practically all events under Jockey Club rules are open to unpaid riders but the weights ruling everywhere are against any increase in the number of amateurs. Some towns are reported to be planning to have a number of amateur races, though the rules are invariably confined to members of clubs attached to the tracks. Probably the most successful of the number at present riding over there is Lord Carnarvon, who pursues an intelligent policy by riding the best animal he can purchase.

There is small inducement to outside owners entering horses for races to be ridden by amateurs as a more satisfactory footing than existed before. It is satisfactory, therefore, to know that the Jockey Club is alive to the position and that some concrete action will be published outlining the views of the club and the proposals to remedy the shortage of jockeys.

QUEBEC NAMES STRONG SQUAD

Will Be Well Represented in Willington Trophy Golf Battle on Monday

Frank Corrigan, Chaudiere, Ottawa; P. A. Innes, Ile-Mercure, one of the province's most prominent golfers; and the team from Quebec will be selected to compete for the Willington Cup at Levallois-Le-Club here Monday in connection with the launching of Canada's thirty-sixth amateur golf championship tournament.

The Ontario team will be headed by Ross "Buddy" Somerville, only Canadian ever to have held the United States amateur crown. Other Ontario members are Fred Robinson, Don Carrick and Phil Parry.

Vancouver Star Gains Semi-finals By Win Over Dan Roberts, California

SABIN DEFEATS ROSS HOCKING

British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and California were all represented in to-day's semi-finals of the British Columbia men's singles lawn tennis championship as the result of play yesterday at the Willows courts, with the sole Canadian hope being T. O. "Ossie" Ryall of Vancouver, who will have to beat Wayne Sabin, flashy but somewhat erratic Portland junior, to get a place in tomorrow's final.

Marking the end of local expectations in this event, Sabin showed an ability to get the points when he really wanted them to eliminate Ryall. "Bud" Hocking, Victoria, number one ranking player of the province, in one quarter-final, 6-4, 6-3, Hocking seemed to lack a finishing touch, but many of the games in this match, though Sabin is a resourceful player and came through on the important occasions.

Ryall had a warm tussle with Dan Roberts, lanky San Francisco youth, before winning by scores of 6-3 and 6-4. The other two semi-finals are the favorite, Mel Dranga, Seattle, and Bob Underwood, Portland, but Perry service. Underwood sprang what must be classed as a surprise in defeating Jack Brown, Vancouver, 6-7, 6-4, 6-3, though Underwood is capable of beating almost anyone in the tournament when he strikes a streak. After losing the first set, he trailed throughout half the second set, finally going ahead from 3-4 to win the set at 6-4 and the final set at 6-2.

Dranga accounted for J. R. Kinney, San Francisco, in the fourth quarter-final, 6-3, 6-4, in a none too interesting game. The winner finished with an inflated right foot which might possibly trouble him to-day. In any case, it is certain Underwood will be right out after him.

Cheer was brought to the hearts of local tennis fans when the old reliable team of McGowan and Milne, Vancouver, earned the honor of being the first to enter a final, as they beat Ossie Ryall and Mildred M. Conner, Seattle, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2. Wayne Sabin, Portland, defeated Ross Hocking and Roche Robertson, 6-4, 6-3. This last-name pair play Underwood and Rosenberg in the second semi-final. Coulthard, Berkeley, and Harper, Seattle, San Francisco, will play the Seattle-Lea Angeles pair, 6-3, 6-4.

The California-British Columbia combination of Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross, Berkeley, and Miss Jean Milne, Vancouver, earned the honor of being the first to enter a final, as they beat Ossie Ryall and Mildred M. Conner, Seattle, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Yesterdays results, including those played in the morning and described in yesterday's edition of the paper, were:

MEN'S SINGLES
Mel Dranga, Seattle, defeated J. R. Kinney, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-4; Bob Underwood, Hollywood, defeated Jack Brown, Vancouver, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2; Wayne Sabin, Portland, defeated Ross Hocking, Victoria, 6-4, 6-3; T. O. Ryall, Vancouver, defeated Dan Roberts, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-4.

New Method Nine Softball Champs

Take Third Straight Game From Beavers 5 to 2 to Capture A Section Championship; Five Double Plays Seen; Painter's Bruin Win

A victory march that started when they appeared to have only the remotest chance of getting into the play-off, yesterday evening carried New Method Laundry to the A section championship of the Lower Island Softball Association as they handed the Beavers, league leaders in the scheduled play, their third defeat in four starts. The other game was drawn.

New Methods played sensational ball behind the short pitching of Roy McElroy, who gave the Beavers their final set back at Victoria West Park yesterday by a 5 to 3 score.

The Laundrys went out in front in the second inning when they brought home a pair of runners and then added another tally in the third to leave off the Beavers' top-run attack in their half of that frame.

The Laundrys scored again in the sixth and the ninth to put the game on ice.

Five double plays were pulled off during the battle, three by the Laundrys and two by the Beavers.

Score by innings:
New Method 0 1 0 0 1 0 1 5
Beavers 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3
Batteries—McElroy and Larry Kennedy; Acres and Coddell.
KENNY WIN
Painter's Bruins beat North Saanich Service Club, 10 to 9, yesterday evening at the suburban grounds to tie up the series in "G" section play-off. Saanich won the first game 9 to 7, while the second game was an eleven-all draw.

Saanich went out in front by driving in five runs in the first three innings to the Bruins' one. The first merchant went on a scoring bee in the fourth to send in five runners and one in the sixth, while Saanich drove in two in the sixth and one in the seventh to take a one-run lead.

Two on in the eighth, Bob McKean drove out a circuit clout for the wood and coal boys, driving in three runs and making the score 10 to 9 for the Bruins. Saanich scored once more in the eighth to tie the lead.

To-morrow night at Victoria West Park these two teams will meet in the final game for the section title, with Crabbe and Borden as umpires.

Min B. Featherstone defeated Min L. Newman, 6-1, 6-1.

VICTORIA CRICKET

To the Sports Editor:—I am sure all cricket lovers will agree with me that we owe Leslie Gibbons a deep debt of gratitude for brightening cricket in Victoria. That it is appreciated is reflected in the fact that a great many more people watch the cricket matches at Beacon Hill than was the case two or three years ago. Then only a few octogenarians would come to watch the game, but to-day there is a real enthusiastic ring of spectators, many risking having the windblow of their cars smashed by some of Gibbons' terrific shots. His 103 last Wednesday was made in less than one hour and a half.

If only we had a few more cricketers like him we should have as many people attending the cricket matches as the Wednesday evening charity baseball games. We don't expect boundaries from every ball, neither do we want to watch the men who let the ball hit the bat and make no attempt to hit the ball.

I have never seen so many men (I won't call them cricketers) who can play a simple ball and yet make it look so difficult. We have lots of good young cricketers, and I hope they will be given a chance to play against the eastern Canadian side in September, instead of playing a lot of old games who were good, so they tell us, ten or twenty years ago.

The following team can beat any side from the east: Reg. Wenman (captain), the finest all-rounder in western Canada; Les Gibbons, Eric Quinton, Geo. and Jack Payne, W. H. Pendry, Hanson, Oakman, E. D. Freeman, Smith and J. Bryden. Seven batsmen, nine bowlers, a wicket keeper and nine good fielders.

KNOCKOUT PLAY TO BE RESUMED

Cricketers to Open Second Series To-morrow With Two Matches

Five C's victors by one run over the Albions in the final of the first knockout cricket series, will meet the runners-up in that competition to-morrow at Beacon Hill in the first game of the second knockout series at 2.15 o'clock.

In view of the closeness of their previous encounter, the game should be the feature of to-morrow's matches in which the Albions, who were defeated by the Wanderers in the first game, will play Cowichan at Dunsmuir in a friendly engagement.

All games are scheduled to start at 2.15 o'clock. The Five C's team for the match follows: P. C. Payne (captain), G. Payne, Shrimpton, Quinton, G. Payne, Griffin, Laird, Gibbons, Alford and Freeman. Reserve, Williams.

Salmonbellies Defeat Adanacs
New Westminster, Aug. 10.—Out-scoring Adanacs in every period, New Westminster Salmonbellies handed their city rivals a convincing 10 to 13 defeat in an inter-city box lacrosse league tilt here yesterday evening.

On the short end of a bad score at half time, Adanacs turned on the pressure in the third quarter to score six goals, while the fishermen were held to four, but Salmonbellies came back in the final quarter to net six times, while the Adanacs were able to collect only a pair of markers.

ONE-SIDED BATTLES
Two American League contests completed a day of one-sided games which saw Detroit Tigers follow the Giants' example in increasing their lead to three games. Following the 13 to 5 Clinton score came the Boston Red Sox 15 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics, which was accomplished in five innings and the other National League clubs enjoyed an open date.

The triumph increased New York's lead to three full games over the second-place Cubs as Chicago's game with Pittsburgh was rained out. The other National League clubs enjoyed an open date.

Rain was as costly to the New York Yankees as it was to the Cubs, putting them a half game further behind Detroit, when their game with Washington was postponed. Chicago and Cleveland had the game scheduled.

On Monday evening the same two teams will open a best three-out-of-five game series to decide the club to meet the Sons of Canada in the final play-off for the city championship.

To-morrow two exhibition games will be staged at the park with the Sons engaging Chemainus in both fixtures. The afternoon tilt will get started at 2.45 o'clock and the evening performance at 6.15.

Chemainus has played here several times before this season and the up-land players have always given a good account of themselves.

Wheat Prices Pared By Profit-taking

Canadian Press
 Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Outside selling and profit-taking today robbed wheat futures of an early 1/2 cent gain on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and left contracts 1 1/2 to 1/4 cent lower than yesterday's close.

Final prices were 1/4 cent under the day's low levels with October wheat at 93 1/2, December at 95 and May wheat at 96 cents.

New highs were touched shortly after the opening when May wheat went to $10.01. Trading through the pit was large in volume. Export sales were estimated at 500,000 bushels.

Buenos Aires wheat was 1/2 cent up at noon while Liverpool quotations closed 1-1 1/2 higher. Chicago held at levels about 1 cent lower. Demand for better grades of cash grains continued and coarse grains displayed independent strength.

CHICAGO
 Chicago, Aug. 10.—Covered largely by belief that expected official figures would show terrific shrinkage of corn estimates, most grains scored new top price records to-day, but receded.

In many quarters, pronounced disposition was apparent to seize profits on grain price advances, and to regard inflationary effects of silver nationalization as being less than at first was expected.

Wheat closed weak, 1 1/4-1 1/2 under yesterday's finish, December new 111 1/2-112 1/2, corn unchanged to 1/2 higher, December 83-84 1/2, oats 1/2 off to 1/4 up, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 13 cents.

Wheat futures purchased yesterday totaled 78,455,000 bushels, corn 24,865,000. Open interest in wheat was 165,889,000 bushels and corn 80,303,000 bushels.

Who Can Explain the Mystery of Mothers' Attitude Toward Their Daughters? Why Do They Pamper Them One Minute and Work Them to Death the Next?—Why Are They So Anxious to Marry Them Off, Even to Worthless Men?

ONE OF the unexplainable mysteries of feminine psychology is the attitude of mothers toward their daughters and why, loving their daughters as they do, they treat them the way they do.

Mystery No. 1 is that even intelligent mothers so seldom try to fill their daughters for life. Apparently mothers still believe in Santa Claus and think that no matter what happens to other girls their own are going to be saved from all the work and worry and hardships of existence. Every mother as she looks into her girl baby's cradle sees a Fairy Prince coming along on a milk-white steed to bear her off to a golden castle, where she will live happily ever afterward.

So she spoils and pampers her daughters and makes a slave of herself. She encourages them in selfishness and extravagance. She goes shabby that they may have the latest thing in sport suits. She makes callouses on her hands so that they may keep their soft and man-curable skin in handsome beauteous suits.

She doesn't even teach them how to cook or sew or market, although she is aware from her own experience that these are the things that every woman must needs to know, and that on her skill in the domestic arts will depend much of the success of her marriage.

Every girl who goes into business goes in handicapped by the lack of discipline, the lack of self-control, the laziness and inefficiency that her mother has bred in her. Half of the young women who rush into the divorce courts do so because their husbands do not treat them as their mothers did. They consider it cruel and inhuman treatment to be expected to do their share of work and bear their part of the load in the matrimonial partnership.

Mother never asks the boys to do a hand's turn around the house, but she saves up the chores for the girls to do when they come home from business. If there is a call for any one to give up a career or stay single in order to take care of old parents, it is always poor Nanny who is elected for matrimony. Mother considers it the girls' duty, not the boys'.

When the girls go to work, Mother feels that all they earn belongs to her as a matter of course, and she takes possession of it without even so much as a "thank you." She makes them bring their pay envelopes to her and then she does out to them what she pleases. Often she gives most of it to her lazy, good-for-nothing sons. But you never hear of Mother grabbing her sons' pay envelopes. On the contrary, she boasts of their generosity and what good boys they are if they even pay her a little board, and if John brings her home a five-cent bag of candy she makes more fuss over it than she does of Sally's having given her a complete new winter outfit.

Mystery No. 2 is why mothers are so anxious to get their daughters married. Most of them haven't found marriage a picnic; they could recommend for enjoyment and a good time. Some of them have had husbands who drank and beat them; some were married to men who were shiftless and no-account; most of them had husbands who never showed them any tenderness or affection, and who were grouchy and high-tempered and hard to get along with. All of their married lives they have had to work hard, pinch pennies, go shabby and have few pleasures to brighten their lives.

One would think that the last thing on earth that a mother would want would be to let her daughter into a life that would be a repetition of hers. But this is not the case. Most mothers are so eager for their daughters to marry that they are not even particular about the light-grooming and they will actually aid and abet their daughters in marrying men who have malodorous pants, men who drink too much, men who have no way of providing for a family, men who have never even been able to support themselves.

Why mothers should be so anxious for their daughters to marry, no one knows. It is not because they are a burden on them, because usually every girl makes her own living in these days and helps her family. It isn't because the mothers think the girls will be happier or better off married than single. It is just Mystery No. 2, and, curiously enough, mothers are so opposed to their sons marrying as they are pleased with their daughters marrying. At a wedding you can always tell which is the bride's mother and which is the bridegroom's. The bride's mother is wretched in smiles. The bridegroom's mother is the lady in tears.

Mystery No. 4 is why mothers seem to think that the marriage ceremony endows a girl with almost supernatural wisdom and bestows upon her the ability to take care of herself. In a word, they think that marriage turns Dumb Down Into Mrs. Solomon, and changes a clumsy vine into a sturdy oak. As long as Sally is single, Mother scoffs at her opinions, feels at liberty to correct her, tells her what to do and what not to do and considers that she can't be trusted to go anywhere alone, although Sally may be forty years old, have a college degree and hold down a big executive office in business.

But if Sally had married at sixteen Mother would have immediately thought that she was an oracle and asked her advice and considered her a sophisticated woman of the world.

Funny about mothers, isn't it, and the way they treat their daughters?

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MONEY BOX
By HOWARD R. GARDNER
Mr. Whitewash, the great-grandfather, stood on the seashore beach holding a small box in his hand. Uncle Wiggily and Jingle had found on the sand a little while before. Jingle called it his treasure box. He said it had a treasure in it.

"But when I found out until we opened it, I was sure it was a treasure box," said the little rabbit. "I was as thrilled over what was going to happen as if the very thing I was to find was a treasure box." "It must be opened before we can see what is inside," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "And it isn't going to be easy to open this box. It has no cover on hinges as most boxes have. It hasn't a lock or a keyhole. I don't see how it can be opened."

"Just leave that to me," said Mr. Whitewash. "I'll have no trouble opening this box. I'll pull it apart with my strong claws." He started to do this, but Jingle held up one paw and said: "Before you do that, let's try to guess what is inside."

"Why should we do that?" asked Mr. Whitewash. "Why not let me open the box at once, which I can easily do? Then we'll know what is inside without guessing."

"More fun to guess," said Jingle. "It is much more fun to guess," said Jingle. "Always when anybody finds a treasure box, they try to guess what it is before they open it. It's thrilling!"

"The child is right," said Uncle Wiggily. "Once I was a little boy rabbit. I found a box, closed like this." "Did you open it?" asked Mr. Whitewash. "I took three guesses," said Mr. Longears. "The first I guessed it was a box of soap. The second I guessed it was a box of soap. The third I guessed it was a box of soap. I was wrong on all three. I was a little boy rabbit. I found a box, closed like this." "Did you open it?" asked Mr. Whitewash. "I took three guesses," said Mr. Longears. "The first I guessed it was a box of soap.
